Ohio Players, in a world their

By JULIE ASH
Monday Magazine Writer

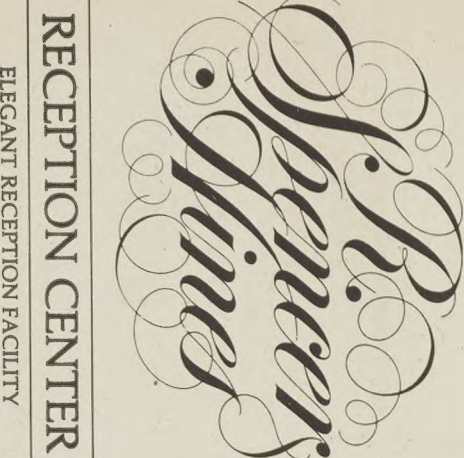

Backstage in a dark, glamorous room of the Star Palace, beneath a forming layer of smoke, the "Ohio Players" relax between shows.

Chet speaks nothing but the "universal language" of music as, detached from what is going on around him, he strums his electric guitar. Satch has an opinion on everything and voices it except when his mouth is full of a chicken leg.

Billy, the piano man, sits backwards on his chair and views everything through elaborately decorated eye glasses.

Sugar, the one with the oversized

"Skin Tight," that included their first gold single, "Give Turkey."

Starting in 1974, the "Ohio Players" had a gold album or single every year for the next three years. "Fire," selling more than a million records, was their gold hit in 1974. In 1975 their "Honey" album produced more than $1 million worth of sales and gave them a gold album. Then in 1976 "Love Roller Coaster" was their second gold album.

"The 'Ohio Players' are one of the best rock soul groups in the nation," says K-96 disc jockey Wayne Richards. "They have had a significant influence in the spread and tremendous present day appeal of disco."

The "Players" don't consider themselves a disco group. "We play anything for any one time. We play anything from bubble gum on up," says Satch.

US executive in Moscow for meeting

MOSCOW AP—Two U.S. Cabinet members and scores of America's top business executives were gathering Sunday in Moscow for week-long talks designed to boost trade between the two superpowers.

Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal arrived Sunday, joining Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps who flew in Saturday.

As many as 20 private jets were bringing in the leaders of top U.S. corporations to Moscow's Sheremetyevo Airport.

About 350 American businessmen plan to take part in the annual meeting of the U.S.-U.S.S.R. Trade and Economic Council.

Blumenthal told reporters face-to-face discussions help both sides "gain a better understanding of each other's positions and I am sure we shall find areas of cooperation between our two countries."

The level of Soviet-American trade has remained considerably lower than what was anticipated during the early days of détente in 1972-73.

According to Soviet statistics, U.S.-Soviet trade amounted to about $2.3 billion in 1977. This compared with a turnover of $4.4 billion in Soviet-West German trade and $3.4 billion between Russia and Japan.

Western diplomatic sources predicted Soviet officials would complain about political differences over such issues as human rights, the Mideast and Africa affecting trade.

'If I only had a heart' - COW

by DONNA ROUVIERE
Monday Magazine Writer

Surgeons draped in dull green gowns surrounded an operating table at the University of Utah's Artificial Organs Laboratory. A surprisingly casual air seemed to pervade the room as a technician looked over the morning newspaper and a nurse in the background read a novel. Around the table, a cool, confident group of surgeons deftly applied gleaming, sterilized instruments in a highly technical operation. In spite of the calm, routine aura of the room, the work performed on the table was crucial — part of a pioneering research program that could have important meaning for the fight against heart disease. Mark, the patient on the table, is a 91 Kg. six month-old calf. Last Tuesday morning, he became the world's most recent recipient of an artificial heart.

A team of doctors spent nearly six hours removing Mark's heart and replacing it with an artificial one. As each second of each hour of every day goes by, a black clock, with red digit letters monitors and records the time he has lived since receiving the heart. Doctors hope he will be able to break the 7 month world's record, set earlier at the U of U this year for a calf on an artificial heart.

Besides looking at the length of time Mark, and the three other calves who are presently on artificial hearts, live, researchers hope to find answers to perplexing problems which must be solved before human use of artificial hearts can begin.

Long one of the leading centers of research for artificial organs, the University of Utah gives artificial hearts to between twenty five and forty calves a year in an attempt to solve these problems.

Dr. Don Olsen, acting director of the Artificial Heart Lab., says although Mark is only one of four calves presently on an artificial heart, he is unique because he is the first Jersey calf at the U to receive a heart.

"In the past," says Olsen, "we've used only Holstein calves. They weigh much more than the Jersey, and with the Jersey we have a calf which is more comparable in size to an adult person." Although artificial heart research is entering its third decade, it has only been in recent years that tremendous gains in the time animals can be kept alive have occurred. Calves can now live healthy lives for more than three months and often five to seven months on artificial hearts. The J-5 heart, which is the model Mark received, has proven the most successful of any heart designed to date. It was designed by U of U researcher Dr. Robert Jarvis and is a pneumatically (air-driven) powered artificial heart consisting of two separate ventricles manufactured from polyurethanes with air-dried, smooth blood-contacting surfaces. Its driving mechanisms are located outside the body, a condition which leaves the animal without great mobility. However, it can still lead a healthy life and exercise on a treadmill.

"In the two decades since it was begun," says Dr.

Fullback Bill Ring, shown in action against Wyoming, scored BYU's first touchdown against UNLV Saturday on an eight yard pass from Marc Wilson.

Cougars drop runnin' Rebels

By DAVE HEYLEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Cougars needed two fourth quarter touchdowns Saturday to put away a stubborn Nevada-Las Vegas squad in what was billed the Yokohama Bowl in Japan.

BYU needed to call on the services of reserve quarterback Marc Wilson to win, as the former starter replaced the injured Jim McMahon and guided the Cougars to a 28-24 come-from-behind win.

The Rebels jumped off to an early lead in the first quarter when UNLV's Jim Gaetano booted a 37 yard field goal with just four minutes into the game.

Lead widens

UNLV widened their lead in the first minute of the second period when quarterback Doug Robertson hit wide receiver Brian Harris on an 81 yard touchdown bomb.

BYU came back seven minutes later and scored on an eight yard touchdown pass from Wilson to fullback Bill Ring. Ring now has eleven touchdowns this year.

UNLV rounded out the first half scoring with 25 seconds remaining when running back Mike Morton plunged over the BYU line and fell into the endzone to give the Rebels a 17-7 halftime lead.

Both teams came out hitting in the second half with the score remaining the same until Wilson closed the gap to four with an eight yard touchdown toss to wide receiver Mike Chronister. Place kicker Brent Johnson added the extra point and the Cougars were down by three going into the fourth quarter.

Backs to the wall

With their backs to the wall in the fourth quarter, the Cougars quickly went to work on taking the lead from the Rebels.

Spurred by the passing of Wilson, the Cougars put together their go ahead drive early in the fourth quarter and with 13:55 remaining Wilson tossed a two-yard pass to tight end Todd Thompson who was all alone in the endzone.

The Rebels regained the lead with a little over seven minutes left in the game, when Morton scored on a three yard blast.

With seven minutes remaining, the Cougars engineered their final drive of the game. Wilson mixed the pass with the run and drove the Cougars down to the Rebels 27 yard line until the drive stalled and BYU was forced to kick a field goal to tie the game.

Although Johnson made the field goal an emotional Rebel player jumped off-sides forcing the Cougars to take the five-yard penalty and kick again.

Johnson kicked the 32 yard field goal but again an over-zealous Rebel knocked Johnson down and roughing-the-kicker was called. This gave the Cougars a first down deep in UNLV territory. A few plays later tailback Casey Wingard rambled in for the final go ahead touchdown.

Wingard scores

Wingard finished the game with one of his best performances of the season rushing for 77 yards in 17 attempts. Wilson finished second in the rushing department with 44 yards in 14 attempts.

Wilson also turned in an impressive performance at quarterback finishing the game with 14 completions in 27 attempts and three touchdowns. McMahon was 5-for-15 before leaving the game in the first half.

Y grounds passing game

Defensively the Cougars found great success grounding the Rebels aerial game but was unable to stop UNLV's running backs.

The Rebels ran up 256 yards on the ground, lead by Morton who ran for 145 yards. UNLV's other running back, Leon Walker, also broke the 100 yard barrier rushing for 112 yards.

BYU completely cut off Robertson's passing game only allowing the Rebels' quarterback to complete four passes for 102 yards.

Offensively wide receivers Kent Tingey and Mike Chronister both hauled down eight Wilson passes. Chronister totaled 136 yards while Tingey's receptions netted him 76.

The Cougar victory snapped an eight-game winning streak of UNLV's which started after the Rebels had dropped their first three games. BYU finishes the season 9-3 and will take on Navy Dec. 22 in San Diego in the first annual Holiday Bowl. Navy finished their regular season with a win over arch-rival Army. The Midshipmen ran over the Cadets by a score of 28-0 Saturday.

Dancers strike a pose as they finish with a flourish their dance from Spain.

Christmas Around the World ushers in Yule holiday season

By DARLA MCFARLAND
Monday Magazine Writer

Those who attended this year's production of "Christmas Around the World", expecting the same fare as in previous years, were not disappointed. From the looks of Saturday night's performance it could be assumed that years ago the producers of this annual Folk Dancers extravaganza hit upon a formula they liked and have stuck to it faithfully ever since.

Whether you last saw the production in 1977 or in 1973, the show looked strangely familiar, and everything was like something that had been done before, in a little different order. Not that there weren't a few innovations: the usual set of locked Christmas trees was enhanced by several lighted panels of mirrors borrowed from Osmond Studios and the background was much larger and grander. Utah Scottish Pipe Band was featured in some dances and gave a pre-concert show. But generally, all the major elements were redone without regard to variety, from the excitingly excellent to the dully unimaginative.

Some of the better parts repeated were the set, lighting and costumes. Although many are seen year after year, there is no denying that the colorful folk outfits against a pristine forest setting are a feast for the eye. ELWC Technical Services repeated its typically competent operation of the limited Marriott Center stage lighting system.

Despite program dullness, most of the actual dancing was well done. Some of the more excellent performances came from the Carolina and Kentucky Cloggers, and a Mexican dance group from Salt Lake called Ballet Folklorico. An all-male Ukrainian dance with swords was also praiseworthy. These snappy, spirited groups captivated the audience with their enthusiasm and gave us respite from the boredom of a too-long program.

As in past years, the show was a lengthy one, over two hours. Even beautiful costumes cannot compensate for the weariness of a program that lags between numbers, is repetitious, and could have been cut by at least one-third.

The reused idea of a slide show with Christmas scenes above the dancers was a good one and made the show more visually beautiful. But the slides were part of a long, rambling narrative that wandered without direction into a tiresome travel log of where the Folk Dancers had been this past year. It seemed to have been injected more as a public relations effort than to entertain. Throughout the program, a pair of children near me curiously asked their mother questions about the countries where the dances originated. How much more educational and interesting the concert might have been if the slide show had been used to explain the origins and cultures surrounding what we saw.

One number which was a surprise departure from the expected diet was the opener. Complete with a disco-dancing snowman, it was exciting, packed with variety, and a spectacle to see. It had everyone sitting forward in his seat and seemed to promise a more refreshing and different program than ever before. But alas, as the show unfolded, we saw little more original material.

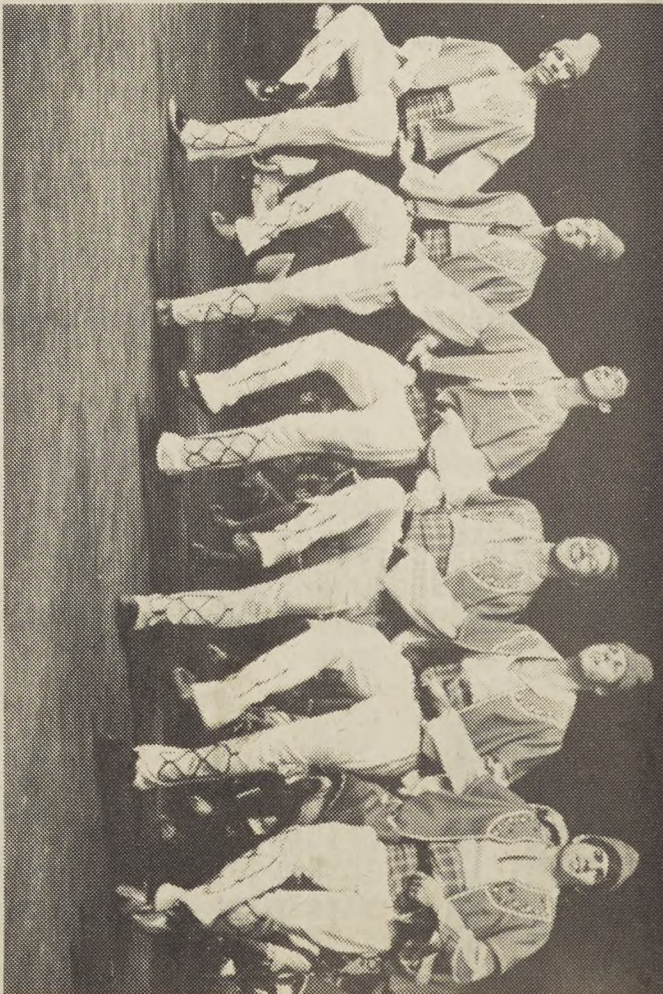

For audiences who enjoy the old format, the track record of "Christmas Around the World" seems to indicate that they will not be shaken by any sudden departures into freshness and creativity next year. But it's possible, judging from audience response after the finale, that they don't want it. Their applause was loud and seemed genuine. Even the sleepy-eyed gentleman beside me who had dozed through most of the show, applauded and cheered at the end.
